

This technology should not be approved due to the interference this technology causes to HF (short wave) communications that use the same spectrum. This known characteristic of BPL is why this technology was not approved in Japan.